

ABSTRACT

A content relay server including: an information memory (201) that stores identification information, content information, and the like; a content receiving unit (202) that receives a content;
5 a transfer judgment unit (203) that extracts, from the information memory (201), content information associated with received identification information and judges, based on the content information, whether or not the received content can be received by a content destination apparatus; a content transfer unit 204 that
10 transfers the content to the content destination apparatus identified by the identification information; and a transfer rejection notification unit (205) that provides notice of transfer rejection according to source information.